New Digitized Collections from the University Archives in Digital Commons@ EMU

http://commons.emich.edu/archives

Did you know that the University Archives now has material available on the web?

During the 2012-13 academic year, the University Archives has been scanning and running documents through an optical character recognition (OCR) program, allowing the documents to be full-text searchable. These documents were then loaded into the Digital Commons @ EMU database, our institutional repository. The materials for this project were selected based on the frequency of patron requests received by the Archives.

The following collections are now online for public access:

- Class Schedules (1882-2011)
- Programs from the Graduate Research Fair, Honors Convocation and Undergraduate Symposium (1980-2011)
- Telephone Directories (1988-2006)
- Board of Regents Meeting Minutes (2007-Present)

Additional holdings from the above collections will be added, as well as new materials, throughout the 2013-14 academic year.

Follow this link to begin your journey into Eastern’s past: http://commons.emich.edu/archives

-Alexis Braun Marks, University Archivist